

PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT OR ENHANCEMENT

Executive Protection Program

How do we establish an effective and consistent executive protection program? How would the program cover other at-risk employees? What information can I provide to senior management who are looking for options on program design, costs, and effectiveness?

By understanding corporate culture and continuously assessing the risks and threats confronting a company, Security will be able to create the right protection program for executives.

How Can the SEC Help?

- Conduct risk assessments on threats and vulnerabilities facing the executives, employees, and the company to determine who, when and where protection may be needed.
- Talk with key stake holders to understand the company culture regarding employee security.
- Assist with any potential vendor selections.
- Help with establishing policy and procedures.
- Determine the appropriate program technology (mobile phone notifications, assistance requests, cameras, travel tracking, social media monitoring).
- Review the workplace violence prevention strategy.
